Tracy has demonstrated her commitment and dedication to the team. She has shown herself as a responsible and hardworking individual through completing her tasks in a well-managed fashion. She is also a fast-learner with self-learning attitude and can handle tasks successfully with little supervision. Her proficiency in Java programming was proven by the developments of the trading system. She knows how to make the source code traceable, manageable and well-formatted from the point of view of a group of developers.

In addition, Tracy is equipped with strong communication and interpersonal skills. She has good verbal communication skills in English as she has cooperated with global teammates smoothly based in London and Indian. She is also a good team player working very well with the other developers in the team.
